Immortal Programme That Illuminates the Path of Korean Youth Movement

The respected Marshal Kim Jong Un delivered a historic speech at the Ninth Congress of Kim Il Sung Socialist Youth League, which would serve as the guideline for developing the Juche-oriented youth movement.

He said that the Ninth Congress of Kim Il Sung Socialist Youth League is a congress of loyalty that has demonstrated the faith and will of the young vanguard to inherit and accomplish the revolutionary cause of Juche under the Party’s leadership by carrying forward the glorious history and fighting traditions of the youth league, a congress for general onward march that has inspired young people to the grand struggle for building a powerful socialist country, and a historic congress that has set up a new milestone for the victorious advance of the Juche-oriented youth movement and the development of the youth league.

Noting that the 70 years of the youth league is a history of brilliant victories of the great leaders’ original idea of prioritizing young people and their wise leadership and a history of the ardent loyalty and patriotic devotion with which the young people of Korea supported the Party, the leader, the country and the people, he stressed that the youth movement of Korea is the glorious Kimilsungist-Kimjongilist youth movement pioneered and developed by dint of their great ideas and wise leadership, and ours is Kim Il Sung’s and Kim Jong Il’s youth power built thanks to their ennobling trust and affection.

In the gigantic and worthwhile struggle for achieving the country’s prosperity and people’s happiness, our young people have been educated in a revolutionary way and trained spiritually and physically, and have developed into a large, matchless contingent forming a thousand-fold, tens-of-thousand-fold fortress around the Party, he said. And he continued to say that our young people are patriots and heroes whom we can be proud of before the world; that they have a large contingent of such trustworthy young people is a great blessing for the Workers’ Party of Korea and a source of pride for Korea, and this assures the great strength of our dignified state and its bright future.

He said that today the youth league is faced with the heavy yet honourable task for ushering in a golden age of the Kimilsungist-Kimjongilist youth movement by developing itself into the eternal youth organization of the great leaders as required by the new era of the Juche revolution and displaying its might as the Party’s advance force and wing in the efforts for implementing the decisions adopted at the Seventh Congress of the Party.

He pointed out the need to model the youth league on Kimilsungism-Kimjongilism so as to fulfil the sacred mission and duty it has assumed for the times and the revolution, which is a mature demand of our developing revolution and youth movement which have reached a new high, and the militant banner the youth league must hold fast to in the struggle to accomplish the revolutionary cause of Juche.

Defining that the youth league is an organization for ideological education and its basic duty is to conduct ideological education of young people, he instructed that the youth league organizations at all levels should hold fast to the five-point education put forward by the Party, regarding it

He instructed that young people should be the death-defying corps in the struggle to defend their socialist country, faithfully supporting our Party's Songun-based revolutionary leadership.

He also continued to say that they should uphold the self-development-first banner on all fronts for building a powerful socialist country and display their valiant offensive spirit and youthful courage in achieving new miraculous and innovative successes one after another.

Noting that young people should become the vanguard and pioneer in building a sci-tech power, he said that they should stand in the vanguard of the competitions of the mind and of technologies to build a sci-tech power and glorify the days of their youth with valuable creations and feats, so as to bring forward the future of their prosperous country.

By becoming creators of socialist civilization and the vanguard in building a civilized power, he said, young people should play the core, vanguard role in building our country into a civilized socialist power as soon as possible by developing art and literature, sports and all other sectors of socialist culture in a comprehensive way.

He also pointed out that they should wage a proactive struggle to achieve the independent reunification of the country and global independence. All the Korean young people in the north, in the south and abroad should hold aloft the banner of national independence and great national unity, join their minds and purposes on the patriotic road of reunification and fight in solidarity and collaboration. In this way, they can smash the obstructive moves of the US imperialists and other anti-reunification forces and open up a broad avenue to national reunification. The youth league should apply the idea and principles of our Party's foreign policy to cementing anti-imperialist solidarity, friendship and unity with the world's progressive young peoples and proactively contributing to the development of the world youth movement.

The respected Marshal set it as the task of the youth league to strengthen its organizations and enhance their militant functions and role in every way possible in order to usher in a golden age in the Kimilsungist-Kimjongilist youth movement.

He instructed that Party guidance over the work of the youth league should be further improved.

Noting that a broad vista is open before the Kimilsungist-Kimjongilist Youth League and our young people storming ahead along the course of the Korean revolution indicated by the Party Central Committee, and the eternal brilliant future of the youth movement of Korea is assured, he called upon them to struggle dynamically for the accomplishment of the Juche-oriented socialist cause, for the modelling of the youth league on Kimilsungism-Kimjongilism and towards the bright future of the youth power.

Kim Il Sung in the days when he formed the DIU [Juche 15 (1926)]

October 17 this year marks the 90th anniversary of the formation of the Down-with-Imperialism Union by Kim Il Sung, the founder and builder of the Workers' Party of Korea.

Kim Il Sung, being aware of the miserable fate of the Korean nation ruined by Japanese imperialists, embarked on the road of revolution and entered Hwasong Uisuk School in June Juche 15 (1926). On the basis of a thoroughgoing analysis of the prevailing situation from a critical, subjective and objective point of view, he intended to found a vanguard organization of the revolution and pushed ahead with its implementation.

As he keenly realized that it was impossible to achieve national independence by resorting to the existing nationalist and early communist movements, he formed the Down-with-Imperialism Union (DIU), a new type of vanguard organization, with the young communists of the new generation that would lead the Korean revolution.

The DIU was not formed in a grand place, and there was not even a platform.

But in that place, simply-furnished room in Huadian, China, passionate young people, including Choe Chang Gol, Kim Ri Gap, Ri Je U, Kang Pyong Son, Kim Won U and Pak Kun Won, gathered with a single ambition. Kim Il Sung delivered a report, titled Let Us Overthrow Imperialism.

The immediate task of the DIU was to defeat Japanese imperialism and achieve the liberation and independence of Korea, and its final objective was to build socialism and communism in Korea and, further, destroy all imperialism and build communism throughout the world. The formation of the DIU was a historic declaration that announced the start of the new era of the Korean communist movement and the Korean revolution.

The formation of the DIU ushered in a new era for the Korean communist movement and the national liberation movement to break away from flunkeyism and dogmatism and advance on the basis of the principle of independence, and commenced the struggle to found a party of new type, a revolutionary party of Juche type.

The DIU became the root of the glorious Workers' Party of Korea. The programme of the DIU served as the basis of that of the WPK, its principle of independence as the principles for building the Party and its activities, and the revolutionaries of a new generation trained by the DIU as the backbone of its foundation.

Holding high the banner of the DIU, Kim Il Sung enlisted all the Korean people in the anti-Japanese revolutionary struggle for national and class emancipation, thus realizing the historic cause of national liberation on August 15, Juche 34 (1945) and founding the Workers' Party of Korea on October 10, Juche 34 (1945) with the DIU as its root.

The WPK, holding fast to the ideal and principle of independence advanced by the DIU as its militant banner, won victories in two revolutionary wars and two stages of social revolution, and pushed ahead with the building of socialism, despite the high-handedness and arbitrariness of imperialists and their followers.

Firmly carrying forward the traditions of the DIU through generations, it achieved one victory after another in the fierce showdown with US imperialists and the struggle to defend socialism by administering Songun politics embodying the idea of attaching importance to arms, of prioritizing military affairs, under the leadership of Kim Jong Il. By so doing, it has developed the country into an invincible military power.

Now the WPK, led by Kim Jong Un, is demonstrating its might as an invincible guiding party that adds brilliance to the idea and traditions of the DIU and accelerates the struggle to accomplish the revolutionary cause of Juche and build a powerful socialist country along the road of independent development.

Top Priority to People's Demands and Interests

For over 70 years since its founding on October 10, Juche 34 (1945), the Workers' Party of Korea has served the people with devotion, shouldering their destiny.

From the first day of its founding, the WPK struck its root deep among the people and made selfless, devoted efforts for the good of them, regarding it as the essential in its existence and development.

President Kim Il Sung ensured that the WPK was built into a mass-based party with workers, farmers and intellectuals as its component elements, that it oriented all its activities to defending and realizing the demand and interests of the masses, and that it thus struck root deep among them and formed an integral whole with them.

Chairman Kim Jong Il ensured that the WPK developed into a genuine motherly party that takes care of the destiny of the masses on its responsibility, administered comprehensive benevolent and all-embracing politics based on affection for and trust in them, and formed inseparable ties of kinship with them.

Thus, the Korean people could gain political integrity, most precious life for a social being, for the first time in history and enjoy a worthwhile life.

Under the leadership of the WPK that has been built by the great leaders as a motherly party taking responsible care of the destiny and future of the people, the working people in the DPRK have become heroes and deputies to the Supreme People's Assembly of the DPRK to discuss state affairs, and all the Korean service personnel and people are leading a genuine life.

Endowed with affection for and trust in the people, the great leaders consistently pursued people-oriented policies to provide the people with affluent and cultured living conditions in the whole course of their leadership.

Under the wise leadership of the respected Kim Jong Un who is adding lustre to the undying exploits the great leaders performed in Party building, the WPK is exalting its dignity as a motherly party.

Kim Jong Un has defined that Kimilsungism-Kimjongilism is, in essence, the people-first doctrine, and is energetically leading the WPK to take thorough care of the people's destiny and make selfless, devoted efforts for the good of them.

Such modern bases for cultural and leisure activities of the people as Songdownon International Children's Camp, Munsu Water Park, Masikryong Ski Resort and Okryu Children's Hospital, as well as baby homes, orphanages, primary and middle schools for orphans, and rest homes for the aged were built all across the country, ensuring that laughter of the people and the children would ring out louder. Not only the merry laughter but also cheering for the Workers' Party and socialism that resounded throughout the country, including the Sonbong area in Rason and Mirae Scientists Street in Pyongyang, is brilliant fruition of the leadership of the WPK that regards it as a matter of paramount importance for the victory in the defence of socialism to improve the people's standard of living.

Everybody in the DPRK, from grey-haired people with grown-up children to innocent kindergarteners, is willing to come and write letters to the Party to unbosom their minds and hopes. This bears testimony to the unbreakable blood ties between the Party and the people, who refer to the former as the motherly party from the bottom of their hearts.

The Korean people are now vigorously advancing along the road toward final victory in the building of a socialist power, with the unshakeable faith to share the same destiny with the WPK that has raised the dignity and value of human beings to the highest level possible and taken good care of all the people.

By Realizing Domestic Production

The Pyongyang Cornstarch Factory has been rebuilt in a modern style amid the strong wind of promoting the independence and Juche character of the national economy with domestic production as the fundamental issue.

It has made all the production processes automated, streamlined, sterilized and dust-free.

What is distinctive in the factory's modernization is that it has realized domestic production of raw materials and equipment.

Well over a hundred machines in scores of kinds are designed and manufactured by its officials, workers and technicians in close cooperation with scientists and technicians from relevant units, displaying the spirit of self-reliance and self-development.

Over 95 percent of its equipment are homemade, and sweets production processes are all equipped with those made by their own efforts and technology.

The greatest success in its modernization is that it produces sugar from home-grown maize.

It processes maize by an industrial method to produce sugar, including millet jelly and okdang sugar, and starch needed for sugar production. It also produces maize oil and domestic animal feed by making effective use of by-products.

The factory conducts analysis of raw materials, semi-processed and finished products with the help of latest equipment made by its own efforts and technology.

It has fully established the quality control system based on advanced analysis and experimental equipment at the general analysis room, so as to make its food products satisfy

New Type of Transformer Produced

The Ryugyong Electrical Appliances Factory has recently established a new production line by relying on efforts and technology of its officials, workers and technicians. It turns out energy-saving air transformers of various capacities that are conducive to easing the strain on electric power in the country.

The factory employees, with a patriotic mind that economizing means production, established the production line with a vacuum casting furnace, jigs and equipment, high-voltage winding dies and other necessary facilities. As the new type of air transformer has high efficiency and little power loss and idle current, it helps raise the power factor of the electric power system and thus reduces the loss of power in transmission. Introduction of this type of transformers throughout the country will help get electricity equivalent to that produced at one power station with great capacity. As they use no oil, they are of great technical and economic importance and also called eco-friendly transformers. They are featured by far smaller sizes, making it possible to reduce installation area to the minimum and easy to manage. Their life span is ten years longer than oil transformers. Energy-saving air transformers of different capacities are rolling off through serial production and sent to various sectors of the national economy, making a great progress in the effort to ease the strain on electricity.

Thaechon Farmers Holiday Camp

Agricultural workers in the DPRK, who do farming with a single desire to overfulfil their grain production plans this year when the Seventh Congress of the Workers' Party of Korea was held, spend merry days at holiday camps even at the height of summer.

Last August the Thaechon Farmers Holiday Camp under the Rural Economy

Committee of North Phyongan Province was full of agricultural workers in the province.

The holiday camp, located in the picturesque pine forest on the shore of the reservoir for Thaechon Youth Power Station No. 4, is a structure closely associated with the people-oriented policy of the Party and the state to make the people enjoy the highest quality and standard of civilization.

Its cosy compound is uniquely laid out with fragrant flowers and trees, and rooms and other facilities for cultural and leisure activities are amply furnished.

During the 15-day holidaymaking, the holidaymakers visited the International Friendship Exhibition House, a treasure house that praises great persons, climbed Mt Myohyang, one of the celebrated mountains in Korea, and toured the Ryongmun Cavern.

In the library of the camp they spent hours, devouring agricultural science books and exchanging experience in farming.

Folk games such as the Korean chess and yut game added zest to their leisure activities, but what was more interesting were various sports and amusement games, including table tennis, volleyball, and others held between holidaymakers and camp employees.

Ri Kyong Ae, head of the camp, and her staff did their best to provide the holidaymakers with every convenience in life and prepare special dishes for them.

Sonu Yon Suk from Raeha Cooperative Farm in Thaechon County was one of the holidaymakers in the first term, and she said, "When I came here I quickened my steps so that I could arrive at the camp as soon as possible. Now it is time to leave here, and I am reluctant to go."

After their holidaymaking, they expressed their unanimous feelings and resolve to farm well for the prosperity of the country.

More Dynamic Activities Are Expected

The Democratic People's Republic of Korea puts forward as one of its government policies to protect the aged people, and thus established the Korean Federation for the Care of the Aged on April 30, Juche 92 (2003).

The federation assumes a mission of ensuring the right and interests of the aged people as well as making them lead a worthwhile and happy life in good health mentally and physically.

The work to protect the aged that had started after Korea's liberation on August 15, Juche 34 (1945), has been developed to conduct a variety of activities with well-organized structures and systems under the guidance of the Korean Federation for the Care of the Aged. The federation is made up of its central committee with several departments, Korea Elderly Support Fund, and similar departments in the provincial, city and county people's committees.

The federation works out detailed plans and implements them to achieve goals it has set up in order to guarantee the demand and interests of the aged people in conformity with the government policy for elderly care.

On such occasions as mother's day and international day for older persons the federation prepares a variety of events, including sports and amusement games, art performances, special services at public catering facilities and so on.

Active assistance to the rest homes across the country is the foremost and consistent work of the federation.

It also ensures that a social climate of respecting the aged as the elders of society and family and giving preferential treatment to them prevails throughout the country, while giving wide publicity to laudable deeds performed by them.

It is now achieving good results in the work to provide them with satisfactory conditions and environment for cultural and leisure activities and bolster up friendly relations with international and charity organizations and overseas Koreans.

Fully aware of its responsibility for a happy life of the aged, the Korean Federation for Care of the Aged will make continuous, sincere efforts to this end.

Songdowon Bathing Beach

July and August are the water sports months in the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, as well as the bathing season. At this time every year sea bathing resorts across the country attract working people, youth and students.

This summer, too, many people from all across the country streamed into the Songdowon Bathing Beach on the East Sea of Korea, one of the famous bathing resorts.

The resort is noted for the picturesque mountains, clear and placid seawater, white sand beach stretching along the coast, full-blown sweet briars and evergreen pine grove, which blend well to add more to its beautiful scenery.

Modern facilities for accommodation and service have been fully provided for the convenience of the visitors.

It was good to enjoy bathing in the sea and on hot sands, and more attractive were sports and amusement games played on the beach.

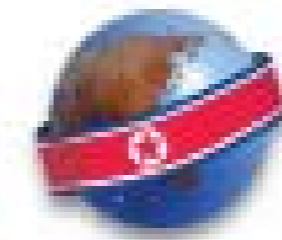

The Songdowon Bathing Beach has served as a place where the working people enjoyed the pleasure of life as well as a worthwhile labour for the building of a thriving country.
