

'Now the alternative is an independent, united government of patriotic, revolutionary, democratic, and leftist forces'

Nawalparasi, September 22, 2025 - The District Committee of the Revolutionary Communist Party Nepal, Nawalparasi, has stated that only an independent joint government can provide a political solution to the country. Releasing a statement from the party's district secretariat meeting held on Sunday, the party said that the only alternatives to the parliamentary system are a national political conference, a revolutionary joint front, a patriotic, revolutionary democratic and leftist independent joint government, and the construction of a people's constitution.

The party has urged everyone to be cautious, stating that the country's politics currently revolves more around status quo and reactionary forces than progressive ones. In a statement signed by the party's district secretary, Ravi Pandey, they have urged for the protection of partial achievements while moving forward towards progress. The statement also highlights that the state has begun to file cases against the youth involved in the Gen-Z movement, emphasizing the need to accept the core principles of the Gen-Z movement. The statement further adds, In the context of the government forming an investigation committee, we have received information that in our district, participants of the GenZ movement are being pressured and controlled, which goes against the spirit of the GenZ movement. Our party demands an immediate end to the arrests and calls for the release of those arrested, treating them with appropriate political behaviour.

The statement also mentions the continuation of the anti-corruption campaign. Previously, the party had announced on June 19, 2025, that it would run the campaign for a year. The statement also appeals to the public to be aware of the fact that the same old parliamentary status quo forces have prevailed even after the Gen-Z rebellion, and that there are no signs of a decrease in corruption.
