Cops Attack Pittsburgh Steelworkers

On Friday November 5th, Pittsburgh steelworkers took matters into their own hands. For the first time in the history of the industry, auto workers were refusing to fall into the pattern set by the so-called passenger agreement, in this case the Ford settlement. Hours before the contract was to expire wildcats broke out in several Detroit area Chrysler plants, too in Canada and at the Belvidere, Illinois assembly plant to name a few.

While the head of the United Auto Workers for Chrysler bargaining was flagging that there would be no problems and predicting a speedy settlement, the rank and file was boiling mad about the Ford package and how the way they were kept waiting till the last minute with no information. Workers demanded a new contract down their throat by shutting down second and third shift in many Chrysler plants. Twenty-five to thirty thousand struck in the Detroit area alone. At Sterling Stamping and Sloan Engine workers held a sit-down by blocking the entrance to the plant to keep the public informed.

Their walkouts and confrontations with foremen and union officials were happening from one end of the Chrysler empire to the other. Thousands of auto workers saw their chance to hit back at the way they need. But the upsurge was more of a protest and way to build momentum, not an open strike.

The negotiations of national rank and file organization can be seen in the growth of Auto Workers United to Fight for Their Own. Carter Beats Ford

What's Ahead For Workers?

Carter has been elected president. The TV commentators and politicians proclaimed "the will of the people" has been heard and talked about how the election process itself was the real winner. But many people even those who voted for Carter are not convinced by all the fanfare that his election will bring real changes in the way things are run.

This final days of the campaign saw an all-out effort by those who ran the country to get out the vote. The newspapers and the media headlines how the election was a "dead heat" and "too close to call" in which every vote might be decisive. For those who were less than thrilled by Carter, but were fed up with Ford, there was a new angle to pull people into the booth. All of a sudden Carter was a "winner" and "leader" and not what Carter's famous smile and his "pious statements about "Love, honesty, faith and trust" wore thinner and thinner to more people that while heAdvertisement continued on Page 8.
WHAT'S BREWING IN BEER CITY

UNION JOBS AT UNION WAGES

The County Board's attack must be fought. The demand of the working class is clear: from the hundreds of the unemployed workers who signed the national petition of the Unemployed Workers Organizing Committees to the 100 workers who turned a job line into a demonstration last month in Detroit-JOBS AT UNION WAGES! There is plenty of work to be done. The cities are falling apart and we could use all that talent brothers and sisters could produce. But as the head of US Steel put it, "We make profits, not steel"—so unless your labor can make a buck for a boss you won't work at all.

Detroit Workers Raise Hell on Job Line

Twice last month, thousands of workers in Detroit showed up to apply for jobs when the word got around there was some hiring going on.

In an event that was publicized nationally, 5,000 people showed up at the Cadillac assembly plant, starting to line up before 4 AM. The jobs were not even advertised—notes were put on the plant bulletin board, and the word got around in a city that has 10% official unemployment. Unemployment among black youth is at Great Depression levels.

By mid-morning the word got around that Cadillac wasn't even hiring, just taking applications for future jobs. Then Cadillac stopped handing out applications.

UNEMPLOYED WORKERS WAITING IN LINE TO APPLY FOR JOBS AT A NEW HOTEL IN DETROIT TURNED THE LINE INTO A 5000 PERSON PROTEST.

For the past three years, inmates at Waupun have been denied the right to read The Worker. We have seen the paper every month only to have the guards catch it in the mail room, destroy it or store it with the inmates belongings to be given to him on the day of his release.

Inmates have fought the censorship—arguing, writing, subscribing and making it a demand of their protests. The July issue finally opened the door to The Worker and so far three issues have been in. Nevertheless, the Worker and several inmates are still pulling a civil rights suit against the state prison officials. There's still hope when the prison big shots will decide to close the doors again after the maximum. The Worker is making a big subscription drive inside the joint. The paper is free to inmates, it can be used to build a better prison and helping the guys behind bars get their heads together.

Longshoreman Dies, To, to Blame

On September 21, Jesse Boatman, a Milwaukee longshoreman, was crushed to death on his job, Boatman got caught by a 4 ton crate that was being swung to the ground. The supervisors were just finishing up

The whole picture boils down to one thing, the capitalists are not making the profits they need, so they and their friends in government are determined to get those profits out of our hides on. "Make fewer people produce more for less wages, no matter how much suffering it may cause."

County Board Cuts Wages

How does $2.00 an hour sound for a full-time job? Your paper boy makes more than that, right? Well, this is the Milwaukee County Board's idea of "helping the jobless".

The County Supervisors moved to expand the county work program from 366 to 1250 jobs, and cut wages from $2.00 an hour to $1.80. This attack on the working class cuts several ways and it is an example of what we can expect from Carter and the U.S. Congress on a much larger scale in the future.

At the heart of the County board's plan in wage cuts. The pay will be so low few job seekers will be interested to make $2.00 an hour in a knitting mill or $1.80 in a tannery look good.

Private industry is willing to pay people a little more and still be guaranteed of a supply of workers forced to take the work, even at a large pay cut from previous jobs.

The County says that workers on these jobs are young single people independent of their families who can't find work. $2.00 an hour will see to that they are not independent for long. Anyway government statistics show that an increasing percentage of people getting aid are men who are supporting families, who used to make $2.30 an hour in a knitting mill.

Steelworker Elections - Time To Dump Abel Machine, Elect Sadlowski

The steelworkers rank and file movement is demanding reforms, including rate increases, pay cuts, and contract violations in the steel industry. The union leadership has been criticized for failing to represent the interests of the rank and file. The Steelworkers of America (USWA) is calling for a campaign to elect Ed Sadlowski as president to break up the Abel- McBride machine that has held power for years.

The USWA has called for a campaign to provide decent terms, strike benefits, and social security. The USWA claims that the union has been weakened by the company's policies. The USWA has also called for a constitutional convention to end the dictatorship of the union. The USWA has called for a vote on contracts and to raise the fundamental demands of the union.

Vaccine Bottled Up in Profit System

To cover up what was going on, Congress made a big show of ruling that the drug companies shouldn't make a profit on the deal, but they didn't even bother to go through the motions of having the four drug companies involved bid for the contracts.

Revolution Will Continue in China

In fact, the drug companies blame the insurance outfits and the insurance outfits point right back. What neither points out is that the drug monopolies and insurance corporations run by the same class of finance capitalists, and often by the very same banks. For instance, the head of the city's top health center and head of the White House.

The disease is called swine flu because it was first identified in pigs. Since there's no money to be made in treating such sick people for true disease is necessary or else they get sick from the shots (for getting with their shots, the patients are accurately told that the flu vaccine is needed) or chance (or a comeback.

With Mao gone, people ask can the revolution in China continue? Many people want to know, without Mao, what guarantee is there that the revolution will go forward in China? The answer is that there can't be any absolute guarantees. Because even under socialism there is still the basis for capitalist forces to seize power from the working class and for capitalism to be re-established.

Our rulers like to point to what they call "power struggles" in China to try to tell us that there's no alternative to the way things are here. But the truth is that while there certainly are big struggles among top Party leaders in China, there are no "power struggles" between one group of crooks and another like Wall Street. They are political struggles over opposite ways of doing things, over which direction things will go in China and which class of people will have the power.

Mao devoted his whole life to training the Chinese people in this struggle, so that the political power would rest in the hands.

The struggles between classes continue even under socialism because every feature of society left over from capitalism is an obstacle to progress. The Party wants to drag society back.

The old capitalists and the landlords are just about finished in China. The Chinese people had centuries of suffering under these old rulers and they are hated by all. But this doesn't mean that the old system no longer has any takers or chance for a comeback.

The old system's leftovers

Workers & peasants have become more & more politically conscious & active in discussing and deciding how things are run. This picture shows workers at a blast furnace discussing ways to improve the operation of the furnace.

Revolution Will Continue in China

In fact, in order to get ahead in China, because of the great respect and love for profit means that the threat of an epidemic can't be met according to the people's needs. The corrupt, run-off of profits here and there is nothing compared to the fact that the whole profit system is rotten to its core.

The same profit motive that pushes the whole vaccination program under suppression, that the vaccine already produced had to sit around in bottles for months while the capitalists wereked and delayed. Now, because of that delay only a few people will be able to get their shots before the flu season begins, and there almost certainly won't be time to vaccinate everyone. The best we can hope for is that the capitalists didn't exaggerate the whole thing in the first place.

Whether or not a real and deadly epidemic breaks out, these people have been playing with our lives. For them, everything is profit and without profit nothing can get done—that's the way their system works, and no amount of hypocrisy by their experts and politicians can change that fact. For us, the working people, the only way to get a way to live. It's more than we can stand having the whole system's rule over us is responsible for the way the swine flu threat has become a nightmare. They are just the way of representing society from top to bottom so that it can meet our needs.

In early October Thailand military and police units assaulted Thammasat University in Bangkok, killing 39 students. Some were shot in cold blood. The assault signalled the takeover of the Thai government by a military junta whose objective is to reassert imperialist domination and reverse the gains of the popular struggle. The resistance of the Thai people is inspiring. The resistance of the Thai people is inspiring, and the Thai people are determined to resist the takeover.

The main reason the Thai ruling class needed to take this extreme action is that Thai workers and poor peasants have been waging a rank struggle for the last three years—and the successes—people will slip their grasp if they don't get a grip on them.
GAINS MADE IN AUTO STRUGGLE BUT FORD CONTRACT A SELLOUT

RANK AND FILE FORD WORKERS DEMONSTRATE AGAINST A SELLOUT AND FOR UNITY BETWEEN SKILLED AND PRODUCTION WORKERS.

The contract signed between the UAW top officials and the Ford Motor Company strikes the shorter workers seem to have a single Tommy gun fixed on them for over three years but five less paid days at Christmas vacation over the life of the contract. The highly advertised "jobs for the unemployed" supposedly created by the automobile industry are not so much the product of the strike as the product of the strike and are targeted against the strike. In any case, the problems of the strike is the problem of the strike, the problem of the strike, the problem of the strike.

Ford workers, who struck over real grievances like wages, speedup, forced overtime and others, nearly rejected the contract. A 400 to 50 vote by production workers was one of the largest rejection votes in UAW history. The margin was even tighter among the skilled trades—-if the UAW didn't want to use the vote outright like they did in 1972. In some locals workers walked out in disgust at the UAW rank and file, showing the abilities of union organizers to rip up their copies of the proposed agreement.

For months the strike did its best to disorganize and demoralize the rank and file to confuse the issues of the strike and to set the Ford workers up for a strike. This was the only way they could accomplish the sellout. But there were also some big victories in the strike. Through the course of the strike Ford workers came to understand more clearly that they're up against a two-headed monster—-not only the company but also a bunch of traitors heading up their union. Unity, especially between skilled and production and between Black and white grew and with a leadership that no longer works for the bosses, after having three years of record profits. The bosses are out once more trying to drive the workers down again, especially between skilled and production workers and between Clayson and the Ford Motor Company. The shorter workers are looking to the Deere machine, drawing the line against black and white workers, against the bosses' attack on them. With the bosses' attack, the longer workers are now willing to put up a fight for anything they can.

The gains made so far in rank and file organization and working in the course of the three 76 auto contract battles have significance for the entire working class. The struggle shows it is possible to fight the two-headed company/union-traitor monster even when one part is as entrenched and controlled as the top UAW officials, and rank and file. Of course the capitalists are not going to settle in and wait for this consolidation to take place. Already, UFW is under sharp attack in some areas and is working to get the workers to join up with this.

Carter

What's Ahead

Don't from p

One woman expressed the sentiments of many people who voted for Carter when she said, "I just crossed my fingers, closed my eyes, and yelled the slogan." All this raised a question. Why, when neither candidate stirred real excitement, did Carter win, the school system and every other authority go to such great lengths to whip up our enthusiasm to vote? Why did they say it didn't matter who we voted for as long as we voted? Why did John D. "Jay" Rockefeller IV, governor-elect of West Virginia, and nephew of Nelson Rockefeller, say he would not vote in this election. "It's just not a way to engage things. It's the only way!" The reason is that upper unions were almost in the minds of these bankers and bosses of industry, who pumped millions to each candidate and run the media which built them up, not which candidates got elected. They wanted to use the election as a "capitalist politicians" and probably make some wordy proclamations and well-put-downs. They have stated "why pay a man $80 to do a job that he could be used for?"

But what will this "mandate" be used for? It is the ONLY "way!"

The economic crisis will continue to deepen despite temporary ups and downs. The longer of war will increase, but this will be our fault, they'll say. After all we elected Carter, so we're responsible. In other words, they have used these elections as a way to make us point the finger of responsibility at each other.

1972 is a good parallel. Record numbers voted for Nixon, but the press and his few thousand followers could only point the finger of responsibility at the people. Then it came double digit inflation, followed by massive layoffs. Vietnam was breeched by heavy news. Finally Watergate. "Those who voted for Nixon are to blame" the spokesmen for the rich, but more say that the people had never given Nixon a majority of the people. The government will claim to be acting on behalf of the people. But Carter can only do as other presidents before him have—"always on the workers' backs." Watergate was a handful on top of society and the great majority on the bottom. No appeals for "unity" can stop the ever-sharpening conflict between the production class—working class—and the commodities. All that the workers produce — the capitalist politicians are promoting for their own profit, both on the job and in the bigger things like who runs the country.

But what will this "mandate" be used for? It is the ONLY "way!"

Election Night Demonstrations Were Held in Over 25 Cities Across the Nation

"Hit the election sham and bring out the campaign. It culminated in a series of election night demonstrations in over 25 cities.

In Milwaukee, 100 workers, students, veterans, and youth marched to the downtown offices of the Democrats and Republicans on election night. As the marchers swelled in front of the campaign offices, spirited chants and songs hit the election sham and brought out their own demands. They singed us up. They lay us off. We won't vote for any Democrat—Republican, we demand unity, no "fear air," are some chants that bounced off the downtown buildings. People on the streets gave shouts of "right on," several joined the march. At the Republican headquarters, campaign workers were visibly shook up and they shut the doors.

At the end of the march, speakers called the crowd on the plaza of the Marine Bank. A Rochester AMF worker from the auto workers contingent of the march, "Unfortunately AMC's efforts to build support behind Carter in Rochester. Just rely on us" version of the Ford Motor Co. contract. In the weeks before Election Day, the nationwide campaign initiated by the Unemployed Workers Organizing Committee under the slogan "Politicians fight for their interests, we must fight for our own," reached hundreds of thousands of workers, students, youth, and women. Many of them actively took up building the campaign. It culminated in a series of election night demonstrations in over 25 cities.

City Hall Called Shots

1st Ward Referendum

The November 2 advisory election to fill resigning Alderman Orville Pitt's seat brought no change to Milwaukee's predominantly Black, near-northside 1st ward. Here unemployment and crime rates are the highest in the city. The squad cops patrol the area in unmarked Patrolor sedans, always ready to harass residents and criminals alike. Landlords charge rip off rents for some of the oldest and worst rundown housing in the city. Despite the talk about improving education, the schools are worse than ever.

The 1st ward more than any other part of the city of Milwaukee feels the full weight of the rich man's system: his discrimination and his oppression. It was here that the fury of the Black struggle broke loose in the upper 2nd St. area almost 16 years ago.

Yet today, Mayor Maier, one of the top urban politicians in the country, together with the downtown politicians and corporate heads has a tight grip on the politics of the inner city. One outrageous example of his manipulation of the political situation came when Pitts resigned, City Council post at the very time that the '77 budget proposal, so threatening to cutback inner city social services.

Next in line for the 1st ward post is the Mayor Maier endorsed -Roverend Roy Nabors. He led the "popularity contest"

AN ATTACK FOR ITSELF!

COUNTRY, WORKERS, STUDENTS, VETERANS AND YOUTH

THE MARCHES ON SHAM

In other pre-election build ups, the local chapter of VVAW sponsored a debate on "amnesty with the state chairman of Jimmy Carter's campaign. With the VVAW spokesman receiving strong support from the audience, the Democratic chairman claimed he didn't even agree with Jimmy's "pardon plan."

The Madison chapter of the Revolutionary Student Brigade also held a debate with Carter's young Democrats drown boots from the crowd by saying that unemployment isn't really a problem.

The Youth In Action took the campaign strongly to several high school campuses, holding guerrilla theatre shows and rallies at lunch time and bringing a large contingent of youth to the march. The enthusiastic youth brought big smiles to the workers faces at the end of the march and rally—when they took the lead in dismembering dummies of the two candidates at the end of the Marine Bank rally.

Actions like the Milwaukee march were held in big cities from L.A. to Baltimore. In Los Angeles the demonstrators hung banners from freeway bridges and rallied at plant gates in the morning. In Chicago 200 marched, many carrying banners that were signed by workers at plant gates and inside the factories. In Boston, police attacked a march of 80 when they reached the Massachusetts state capital hitting the election sham.

The Election Day demonstrations, addressed critical questions on the minds of millions of people and won a great deal of sympathy. Although not large, they were strong and spirited because of what they represented—a step onto the political stage for the working class, a declaration of how things will be in the coming years.

Our political activity will not be confined to pulling a lever every four years to choose between two servants for those who rob us and keep us down. We fight every day for what we need to live—and that fight is growing. The more they try to make us accept their attacks with window dressing like the elections, the more we must take matters into our own hands. And that's what we are doing. We make society run, why can't we run society?
Takeover Exposes: GI Bill Cuts

"I stand and looked at the Soldiers and Sailors Monument. Then I looked up at the Terminal Tower—at that Castle of Capitalism—and I knew what I had to do...The barrel of my shotgun was stuffed with all the letters I had written to change the system for vets.

In these words, Ashby Leach a 30 year old Vietnam veteran, described his decision to take over the Chessie and Ohio Railroad (Chessie) offices in the Terminal Tower Building in Cleveland. His situation, like that of thousands of other vets, called for drastic action. He had served an active tour of duty in Vietnam and had been awarded the Purple Heart. He had seen first hand the hypocrisy of a system which promised freedom and democracy but which threw away young men's lives for the holy cause of profits.

Following his army service he became an apprentice mechanic at Chessie and was doing what kind of "gratitude* democracy but which threw away young men's lives for the holy cause of profits.

FIVE YEAR BATTLE

Under the GI Bill, veterans in such apprentice programs are allowed to get VA assistance during job training. VA pays the difference between what the company and government officials were willing to pay. VA assistance during job training. The GI Bill comes under attack, and thousands of vets are denied benefits one way or another.

No sooner had he been surrendered to the police than Chessie went back on its promises. The media made him out to be a lunatic. The police murdered him to give him a little respect. The courts have indicted him on 16 felony counts. Now, in the latest attack, the court's appointed "medical experts" are stating that Ashby is a "paranoid schizophrenic".

Takeover Exposes: Free Ashby Leach!

"Make Chessie Honor its Promises to Vets, and Extend and Expand the GI Bill. The demonstrations got an enthusiastic response from hundreds of passersby and were strongly attacked by the local TV.

To help build this struggle to free Ashby Leach, the Alliance to Liberate Chessie (ALDC) has recently been formed. With the rising of the struggle, the学会了 that they were giving the Vietnam vets the shaft.

At this point the VVAW and the ALDC are calling for a national demonstration in Cleveland on the first day of Ashby's trial. A national petition drive is being conducted and the ALDC is calling for a letterwriting campaign aimed at the Chessie System and the Cuyahoga County Prosecutor to protect Ashby's imprisonment.

DEFEND ASHBY LEACH

Men in the metal shop took control of the industrial building at Waupun on July 21. They struck a powerful blow against the repression that is a way of life behind the walls.
Canada General Strike

Over one million Canadian workers from the Yukon to Nova Scotia went on strike on October 14 in protest of the government's wage freeze. The 14th was the first anniversary of Prime Minister Trudeau's Anti-Inflation Board. Like the old Pay Board in the U.S., this board tried to keep prices stable by imposing wage and price controls.

The general strike was the first in Canada's history. Protests, demonstrations, rallies, and picket lines were held coast to coast, affecting every major industry—all the major auto plants were closed as was Goodyear Tire and Rubber. The mines and pulp mills were shut down. Protest picketing went on in front of the Anti-Inflation Board in major cities and in Ottawa thousands of workers marched on Parliament.

Faced with capitalists' economic crisis, similar to what workers in the U.S. faced and with the capitalists trying to make the Canadian workers carry the burden of that crisis through general attacks on their standards of living, rank and file union members have been calling for a general strike.

The one day general strike didn't set too good an example for us here. While the one day general strike didn't put an end to Trudeau's law, it did show the steam and growth of the Canadian workers' movement.

Last 'Scottsboro Boy' Pardoned

"...Always Fight For Your Rights"

Last month, the sole surviving member of the Scottsboro Boys, Clarence Norris, was pardoned. What happened between 1931 and 1976 is a long story.

At the time of the Scottsboro Boys' arrest and trial the country was deep in the Great Depression. In the South, Blacks mainly lived on small farms or as sharecroppers and were subjected to a vicious lynching terror by reactionary forces. Black men and women were hanged, shot, burned, stoned, and raped. Over a million and a half southern Blacks were housed in slums.

Revolutionary workers, including communists, called on people everywhere to come together in struggle to defend the Scottsboro Boys. In the course of the battle that the Scottsboro Boys became a part of the overall battle of the working class for all nationalities and the oppressed. The fight for the Scottsboro Boys became a part of the process of fighting the whole system of capitalism and all the forms of oppression. Workers and Black people throughout the country contributed money out of their meager Depression-era paychecks to help provide for a legal defense.

On December 8, 1976, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that Norris be pardoned. Norris had been on death row for 45 years.

The lesson to Black people, to my children, to everybody is that you should always fight for your rights, even if it costs you your life. Stand up for your rights, even if it kills you. That's all life consists of."

Godfather Dies

The government, the politicians, the police—all like to talk about how hard they are fighting crime. And yet on October 15 the Don of Dons, Carlo Gambino, died in Brooklyn at the age of 74. And his death, from natural causes, tells more about this system than all of their hot air.

These facts are known for certain about Carlo Gambino: He is the most powerful Mafia boss in this country. Not only did he head his own New York "family," composed of 100 armed thugs and dominate over the other four New York families, he was also a member of the so-called "national commission" that makes policy for the 27 Mafia families in the United States. His families' operations stretch from western Massachusetts to the outskirts of Philadelphia including gambling, loan-sharking, hijacking, narcotics, and labor racketeering.

Think about just one of these-cocaine. Think about how many kids ruin their lives with drugs, who get hooked and fall into petty robberies to support their habit. Now multiply one of these crimes by a thousand, by a million, and you begin to get a picture of what kind of monster Carlo Gambino was.

The fact that Carlo Gambino was the chief of the Mafia has been known to the FBI, the police, to the entire ruling class for years. Yet what happened to him? He was over even arrested once for the drug operations he headed or for the murders he ordered? Was it his families' excessive control over the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) or other unions ever broken up? And why are any plans to round up the well-known Mafioso who attended his funeral and now intend to expand operations even further in the areas of hijacking and racketeering?

No, in fact it turns out that this Don spent only 22 months of his entire life in jail—and that was back in 1937.

U.S.-USSR. MOVE CLOSER TO WAR EUROPE THE PRIZE THEY BOTH SEEK

In the second Ford/Carter debate on foreign policy, Jerry Ford claimed the country of Europe was not dominated by the USSR. No one forgot on that 1970 fall if he were president he would stand up for the liberation of these countries from Soviet control. As usual, Carter spoke out of both sides of his mouth, and the American people went to the polls and at the same time beat the drums for war with the Soviet Union over tonnage vs. Europe. For several weeks the going was rough on the European issue, with Ford on the hot seat. Carter pranced around as the "great liberator" of oppressed people, while Ford kept trying to insist that what he had really meant was that he wanted to liberate Eastern Europe too. Most of Eastern Europe is dominated by the capitalist rulers of the Soviet Union, just as Western Europe is dominated by the U.S. Both superpowers have elements within them, the labors and resources of the people. The only "liberation" that Carter, Ford and the ruling class believe in is "liberating" parts of the USSR's empire so they can add it to their own. The Soviet Union would like to grab parts of the U.S. rulers' empire as well. This drive to expand their empires is bringing the two superpowers closer to war.

The U.S. and USSR talk of détente when it comes to things like cooperating to explore outer space and send performers from one country to another. But the weapons keep building up as these two giants prepare to fight it out for domination of the world. Their navies sail within gunsight of each other on the Atlantic and Mediterranean Oceans.

The U.S. has 350,000 troops in Western Europe along with nato forces. The USSR has an incredible 2,400,000 men stationed in its European territories alone. It is not realistic that the U.S. sent 84 new bombers to its bases in England in response to the increase of Soviet MIGs. Both superpowers are prepared to use these troops in Europe, just as during the First and Second world wars, when millions were killed and cities destroyed with the knowledge which had been spotted by Air Force pilots on their way back to the U.S. The Mayaguez incident itself was a necessary sacrifice in order to avoid piracy on the open seas.

Almost immediately the U.S. government reacted. President Ford declared the "national honor of the U.S." was on the line. All the leading politicians from Ted Kennedy to Barry Goldwater, joined in the war cries. The marines landed in a Cambodian island supposely looking for the men. The Air Force bombed the Cambodian mainland and strafed the Cambodian boats. Several were sunk. The marines hurled an "expedition" of marines on the Cambodian island and rescued the men and the ship.

This entire thing was front page headlines. A political point was made both to the people of the U.S. and to people around the world. We may have lost in Vietnam and Cambodia the U.S. rulers said, but we're still militarily strong bits. This incident should teach us a lesson: when the ruling class says "we are liberating" they are describing themselves.

estar buen si el estado no es bueno de las cosas, sino la cuestion de si se hace revolucion y hacerse mas y mas politicamente conscious y actives dis- cussion and among themselves and the important thing is that the working people are only good for slaving away for their own private gain. "

For Mao always taught that the most im- portant things was for the broad masses of working people themselves to struggle over and grab the correct political line. Only in this way could they keep pol- itical power in their hands. If China were to follow the line that the working people are only good for slaving away for others, without taking part in setting the political line, there would be no guarantees of a bright future. The long history of workers struggle in China before and after the winning of socialism is a wealth of experience. Continued workers struggle to keep con- trol of the political line is the best guarantee of a bright future.

In inevitable that the rulers be le- galized, but it is also crucial to make the work- ers struggle in the future. The old capitalist empires are not considered to be "socialist" disguise. This "socialist" dis- guise suits those people, because then they can run things as they want, and pretend that the system is not working or not the work- ers run things, but rather the work- ers run everything, which is a way of allowing profits to go to the capitalists. This is a way of ensuring that the wages workers earn are used to pay for the profits of the capitalists. This is also a way of allowing the workers to control the factories.

As Mao Tsetung pointed out that there would have to be many more Cultural Revolutions and other mass political struggles like it.

CHINESE WORKERS IN CHINA CONTINUE THE REVOLUTION

This struggle against the bosses is necessary for the workers to gain the control of the factories.

To summarize, the Chinese workers have gained control of the factories by working together and fighting against the bosses. This has given them a sense of power and pride.

¿Peligro de la Swine Flu?

La amenaza este invierno del virus flu, es una pesadilla. No existe una vacuna perfecta, pero hay medidas que podemos tomar para disminuir el riesgo. A continuación, algunos consejos importantes:

1. Lávate las manos a menudo:
   - Usar agua y jabón durante al menos 20 segundos.
   - Usar alcohol en suero de gel cuando no tengas acceso a agua y jabón.
2. Evita el contacto con personas enfermas:
   - Evita el contacto físico cercano con personas que tienen fiebre, dolor de cabeza, tos o dificultad para respirar.
3. Mantén una distancia de seguridad:
   - Intenta mantener una distancia segura de al menos 1,5 metros de distancia física.
4. Usa una mascarilla si estás enfermo:
   - Si tienes síntomas de la gripe (fiebre, tos, dolor de cabeza), usa una mascarilla cuando estés en lugares públicos para evitar contagiar a otros.
5. Evita las actividades que normalmente entretenen:
   - Evita viajar a zonas con altas tasas de contagio.
6. Sigue las medidas de prevención recomendadas por las autoridades locales.

Vacuna Embotellada en Sistema de Ganancias

El problema no es solo que los capitalistas están tratando de hacer negocios de una posible epidemia, es que aún la forma en que ellos han organizado la sociedad para ganancias, a menudo a expensas de la salud pública.

La revolución se seguirá en China

La revolución chino sigue en marcha, con una sangar fuerzas organizadas y disciplinadas para un cambio radical en la sociedad. La clase obrera y campesina ha generado una resistencia fuerte que amenaza los intereses capitalistas.

El Congreso hizo una gran comisión ordenando que las compañías de drogas no deberían hacer ganancias en el acuerdo de vacunación. Una vacuna que pudiera llegar a ser efectiva.

¿Peligro de la Swine Flu? ¿Quién es el responsable por este riesgo? ¿Es Mao, y hay alguna garantía de que la revolución en China avanzará? Mucha gente se preguntará por la misma razón que los colonos de la antigua China asombrados por la forma que el swine flu sigue siendo un reto.

En el mundo occidental, a pesar de los financinges que la vacuna ha recibido, el problema de la swine flu sigue siendo un desafío. No hay una vacuna perfecta y la mayoría de los países están luchando por encontrar una solución.
